DOINGS AROUND POLICE STATION

Many Accidents Keep Wagon Going On Lope

There were numerous accidents during the holidays and the patrol wagon was kept going all the time. The first call was to a Chinese laundry where an employee named Toy Kup had dropped dead. It was death from heart disease from all accounts and a verdict to that effect will doubtless be rendered by the coroner's jury when it meets.

The next call for the wagon was to convey a Russian named Kulsasky to the hospital; he had jumped off a car while it was moving, and had of course done the trick backwards. K will probably be around before long and will in future, it is hoped, wait till the car stops.

Manuel Pahau was also gathered in by the ambulance, and taken to the hospital; he had fallen from a car and bruised his head. Then "Monkey" a dame well known to the police was found in an unconscious condition and she too was hauled to the hospital.

John Pacheco, who was riding a bicycle out at Kapiolani Park, managed to collide with a race that was in progress and was thrown heavily to the ground. His ankle was broken and he, too, had to go to the hospital.

There were several arrests made during the day, and one of them was that of T. Burns who had induced some children to misbehave themselves. He will appear in court tomorrow morning.

Joe de Ponte, alias Farrall, who is alleged to have come through with some pipe dream of a gambling joint being run without the knowledge of the police, appeared in court this morning and on the request of his counsel, was remanded to the Circuit Court for jury trial.

Yanagi, the Japanese who is alleged to have shot up the servant's quarters at the Davison dairy, was escorted with A. M. Brown and the chief of detectives this morning. The man was put through a searching examination and made many damaging admissions.

The Chief of Police at San Francisco has been called to and instructed to arrest the man who is supposed to be Tin Soan, as soon as the Sierra arrives. It may be Sheriff Jarrett who will make the trip to the Coast in order to bring the escaped prisoner back to Honolulu.

Kee-ee, Supervisors Fernandez, Kala-waa and Deha and Sheriff Pua. Many of these were present mainly for the sake of curiosity. Several told Affonso that they were opposed to prohibition, but that they did not wish to enter into a discussion of the matter in a place where they were bound to be in a decided minority.

Affonso says that the church was filled, but that outside of the delegates, rather curious to see how little interest the voters of the district took in the affair.

"I heard one of the speeches on prohibition," said Affonso. "It was just the same stunt as usual. The speaker would talk about half a minute, and then Deha, as interpreter, would talk for about a quarter of an hour. Every ill, every sorrow, everything that was bad in human nature had its origin in drink. The devil was a pretty good fellow as compared to the demon rum. The speaker tried to prove that the Bible spoke in favor of prohibition. He scored the liquor men and the enemies of the Hawaiian Board who had contended that the Bible authorized the use of liquor.

"Rather an amusing incident occurred while I was at Kailua," continued Affonso. "The Kau band had come over and took part in the festivities. Arrangements were made for a dance to be given by the band on Monday night, and tickets were sold at a dollar each. A number of people bought tickets, but were much disappointed when they came to the place where the dance was to be held, and found that there was nothing doing. It appeared that the missionaries had placed dancing in the same category as liquor, and the dance was consequently kiboshed.

"In the mean time there were other dances which went on in spite of the convention. There was one spirited hula going on a short distance from the church while the convention was in session. I noticed that the hula kept at it longer than the others."

SITE SETTLED FOR LEILEHUA

Government and Dowsett People Have Reached Agreement Barracks Will Soon Be Constructed —Buildings to Be Very Substantial.

The starting of work on the new cavalry post at Leilehua depends entirely on the quartermaster's department at Washington. Col. Schuyler, of the Fifth Cavalry, stated that the site had been decided on for some time and it was up to the proper authorities at Washington to commence the work.

The fact that a small part of the proposed cavalry site overlapped a small portion of the Dowsett ranch has been the cause of the delay in getting the work started on the new barracks. It is stated that this difficulty has been overcome now by an agreement and that work of fencing in the reservation will commence shortly.

The post is to be built in a very solid way, the buildings to be of reinforced concrete. An appropriation of $200,000 has been available for the past year. In the Senate Sundry Bill passed June 13 by the Senate, was the following amendment:

"Striking out the House appropriation of not to exceed $400,000 additional to amount already authorized ($200,000) for construction of cavalry post, Hawaii Territory."

DR. ATCHERLEY WANTED-BADLY

Coast Lepers Offer to Do Without Some Meals—Will Fast Till the "Doctor" Is Restored to Them.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—An appeal by the lepers at the isolation hospital, which charges Health Officer McNutt with misrepresenting their desires to the Board of Health and which offers to do without one of their meals each day if Dr. Atcherley may thereby be restored to them, was read at yesterday's meeting of the supervisors' hospital committee. Supervisors Healy, Nelson and Walsh ordered the communication "filed."

The lepers said: "We hereby appoint Miss Sarah E. Frye, W. I. Flagler and Dr. T. E. Tillman our representatives and we wish to voice our united denunciation of any and all statements made by Dr. W. McNutt Jr., health officer, at the meeting of the Board of Health June 15, 1910, wherein he stated that 'only one or two persons who signed the petition addressed to the honorable Board of Supervisors applying for the return of Dr. Atcherley to us at once' had signed the petition or really wanted Dr. Atcherley, and that the rest were 'faked names.'"

"We unite in saying that such statement made by Dr. W. McNutt Jr. is utterly false."

The lepers then appeal to the mayor and the board to "rescue us by returning Dr. Atcherley to us at once. We even offer some of our meals be taken from us in place of the return to us of Dr. Atcherley."

The lepers signing the petition were Samuel James, J. Rika, W. Meyer, Joe Jones, N. B. Hermosura, Yat Sun and S. S. Kim.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION BLOCKED

prohibition. It was made by Senator Makekau, and came like a bombshell in the peaceful camp of unanimity. Those in charge of the affair did their best to prevent anyone not having the views endorsed by them, from speaking, but Makekau could not be stopped, and his speech is said to have had tremendous effect.

"It was rather queer that they should try to stop Makekau from speaking," said a prominent Hawaiian who reported the matter to the Tribune. "Just before that, Fred Beckley had stated in a speech that he had not attended church with really devout motives more than three times for many years, and still he was allowed to speak as much as he pleased. Makekau has been a prominent and hard-working church worker for many years, and when he wanted to speak every possible obstacle was placed in his way. He only managed to get the floor by taking it by force and breaking in ahead of several speakers who had been regularly scheduled, and when he once had started they could not stop him. His speech was a very strong one, and made a great impression among the Hawaiians."

"Makekau said that those who had come to Kailua to preach prohibition had misunderstood him. He admitted that liquor was the cause of much evil, but maintained that this was the case only when it was used to excess. The prohibitionists had talked about all that was evil in liquor—it was a curse to the country, a curse to the Hawaiians and a curse to every one—but they did not say how it must be gotten rid of, what methods would be employed. They knew, but did not say, that the importation of liquor could not be stopped, that the interstate commerce law prevented that. They were trying to make fools of the Hawaiians by getting them to vote in the dark. The whole agitation, if successful, would lead to the institution of government by commission. This was the scheme of those who were back of prohibition. That was their hidden purpose."

"Makekau's speech had tremendous effect. A woman delegate stood forth and said that she realized that she had been misled. She was going home to her people to instruct them to vote against prohibition."

"As a matter of fact, Makekau's speech created such an impression that the leaders would not let the prohibition exercises continue, although there were several speakers to follow. Church matters were taken up instead."

IN OFFICIALS' APPETITES ARE UNDER FIRE

(Special Correspondence.)
HILO, Hawaii, July 4.—Do the county officials eat more than other people and therefore have to pay more for their meals? This question is puzzling County Attorney Beers. Will the county pay the $30, which it lopped off from the bill charged for meals furnished County Attorney Beers, Clerk Tari Williams and Sheriff Pua during the session of the Circuit Court at Kailua, will it be necessary to sue the county for the money? This question is worrying Ah Lap, the Kailua boss face.

Ah Lap is much displeased that the supervisors at their last meeting, without giving any reason, decided to pay him thirty dollars less than he had asked for. He will, it is understood, write to the board giving it the alternative of digging up forthwith or being sued for $30 amount. This letter should be received in time to come before the board at its meeting next Wednesday.

County Attorney Beers is much pained at the incident. He says that he understands that Ah Lap charged the officials 50 cents per meal, whereas ordinary mortals were charged only 25 cents for the same kind of meals. Both he and his clerk desist strenuously that they ate more than the ordinary run of Ah Lap's patrol. However, this will be a matter for the county fathers to investigate. The meantime it will be funny if the officials' appetites bring the count into a lawsuit.

OPENING OF NEW ORPHEUS

An extra force of workmen were put to work on the New Orpheus this morning in order to have the building in readiness for the opening on Thursday evening. The seats began this morning, and the demand indicated that the new Hilo street playhouse would open its doors to capacity.

"The Astronomer," which will be the first offering of the Casino Musical Comedy Company at the new theater, has no less than fourteen musical numbers, with several special features to be introduced by the principals and some pretty ensembles. The entire company, Miss Rockwell and Carleton Chase will sing for the first time, "You and I and the Moon." All of the members of the company will introduce something new in the way of musical numbers.

It takes some people a long time to get around to doing business on a square.

The cheaper a thing is the more looks the part.
